BACKGROUND DATA

Site & Area Description

The subject site is located in the middle of the block, on the west side of 36th Avenue South, between South Alaska Street to the north and South Edmonds Street to the south in the Columbia City Neighborhood of South Seattle. The existing development site is currently undergoing construction activity to provide six residential units on a land area comprising approximately 10,112.68 square feet, located in a Multifamily Lowrise Two zone (L2) with a minimum density limit of one unit per 1,200 square feet of lot area. Additionally, several zoning overlays are associated with this sight; Columbia City Landmark District, South Seattle Reinvestment Area, and Columbia City Urban Village.

The site is nearly square in shape, fronting 36th Avenue South along its east property boundary line (91.90 feet), a platted 14 foot concrete alley to the west, and borders private property to the north and south (110.04 feet for each segment). The subject site has a modest slope of approximately of eight feet over a distance of 110 feet, sloping downwards from its southwest corner to its northeast corner. The site is currently under development with the construction (permit #740447) of one townhouse structure containing a total of 3 units and three detached ground related residential structures. A mix of two and three-story structures have been approved and are currently under construction under the aforementioned permit (#740447).

36th Avenue South is a right-of-way improved only for pedestrian travel that falls under the joint authority of both the Parks Department and Seattle Department of Transportation. 36th Avenue South accommodates pedestrian and pedestrian powered (e.g., bicycles, scooters, etc.) activity upon a concrete sidewalk fronting the properties along its west-side, the remaining portion of the street is landscaped and closed off to vehicle use. Vehicle access to the subject site will be obtained through a concrete alley to uncovered surface parking pads adjacent to the alley.

At present the site is devoid of trees or shrubs during the ongoing construction related activities. Two mature street trees abut the subject lot along the unimproved 36th Avenue South right-of-way. The trees provide a visual buffer from the adjacent Seattle City public park (Columbia Park) and City Library (Columbia Library). The library is sited near Rainier Avenue South, evoking a park-like setting for the proposed development site with the expansive green space separating the two uses, in this South Seattle neighborhood.

Along the west side of the 36th Avenue South block front, the majority of the adjacent residential structures are one and two-story structures. Within the 36th Avenue South right-of-way mature trees sparsely populate the well manicured lawn that rolls gently downward towards Columbia Library, which is located at the southwest corner of South Alaska Street and Rainier Avenue South. To the west across the alley a mix of single family and apartment styled housing are nestled in this L2 zone. Zoning in the vicinity is a mix of Neighborhood Commercial, Multifamily Lowrise and Single family zoning. Immediately to the west across the centerline of 35th Avenue South, a modest sized Multifamily Lowrise Three (L3) is situated. To the north across the centerline of South Alaska Street, a narrow Neighborhood Commercial Two Residential with a forty foot height limit (NC2/R-40) zoning band is located, fronting Rainier Avenue South. Adjacent to this zoning band to the west is an expansive Single family 5000 (SF 5000) zone. Lower density zones; Single family 5000 (SF 5000) and Multifamily Lowrise One (L1) are located to the south across the centerline of South Edmunds Street. To the east Neighborhood Commercial Two and Three with a forty foot and sixty-five foot height limits (NC2-40, NC3-40, & NC3-65) support a mix of commercial and institutional uses. Among the number of commercial and institutional uses that can be found in this Columbia City community are retail, post office, recreation services, and restaurants.

Proposal

The subject property is currently under development with the construction of six (6) townhouse structures (under related permit numbers 740447). This unit lot subdivision would create six (6) separate unit lots for each of the dwelling units on the one parent lot (or development site). Vehicular access will be provided through an improved concrete alley extending to South Alaska Street to the north and along South Edmunds Street to the south. Parking for each unit will be provided in the rear on uncovered parking pads.
